

Clients

Over the past thirty years TELOS has had the opportunity to work for a wide spectrum of clients in an unusually diverse variety of fields. TELOS projects have helped cultural institutions, foundations, museums and corporations to tell their stories through non-fiction, documentary-style programs. Many of these programs became the centerpiece of large scale development and fund raising projects helping clients to raise millions of dollars.

TELOS adapts its services to the needs of its clients to provide specific skill sets tailored to individual projects. Some clients look for Telos to handle every aspect of the production. Others, like Jones Day or Cleveland Clinic may have in-house production teams but want to hire Telos to augment their internal capabilities.

Clients and institutions, in almost any discipline, field or industry will benefit from our strategic insight, diverse experience and extensive international track record.
